

Hagerty Welcomes New Senior Vice President of Internal Audit

TRAVERSE CITY, Mich., May 24, 2022 /PRNewswire/ - Hagerty (NYSE: HGTY), an automotive lifestyle brand and a leading specialty insurance provider focused on the global automotive enthusiast market, today announced the expansion of its senior executive team with the hiring of Joyce Bellows as Senior Vice President of Internal Audit. In this role, Bellows will lead the strategy and execution of Hagerty's risk-based internal audit program including identifying and evaluating risk, governance and control processes and recommending improvements in line with evolving industry best practices.

Bellows joins Hagerty with more than two decades of experience across several segments of the financial services industry. Prior to Hagerty, she served as Senior Vice President of Internal Audit at CNA Insurance, where she led the internal audit and investigative functions. She held various progressive leadership and risk positions at Citizens Property Insurance Corporation, NetBank, EverBank, Deloitte and Bank of America. She holds several professional certifications including Certified Internal Auditor (CIA) Certification in Risk Management Assurance (CRMA) and an MBA from the University of North Florida. "Joyce's expertise in risk management and internal audit complement our organization's efforts to remain at the forefront of the auto enthusiast market," said Fred Turcotte, CFO of Hagerty. "With her history of success and progressive leadership skills, I am confident she will integrate with our growth culture and help our team take the company to the next level."

"I'm thrilled to begin this journey with Hagerty," said Bellows. "The Internal Audit Team has a unique opportunity to make a positive impact by developing a risk-based internal audit program that will support the Hagerty organization in accomplishing its goals and objectives."
